Brandon: I spent about 2 hours on this project. The first hour was by myself, researching the structure of FFMPEG, and looking through the directories to see if I could find any places that might be of interest. I found the bmp.c and pcm.c files and hypothesized that they would be the files to change. The other hour was spent with Jose, where we discussed our ideas, made the necessary changes to the files needed, and tested them to get the desired output.

Jose: I spent about an hour researching about ffmpeg and file traversal. Brandon and I met up and spent a little over an hour together and were able to complete the assignment together. He remained the driver, while I navigated. It didn't take us long to figure out what to do since we knew what to look out for in the discussions.
